JOINT VOTE

- In a joint vote, President and Vice President candidates will run joint campaigns, similar to the U.S. presidential election.
- The pair that wins the absolute majority will be named President and Vice President.
- Other officer positions should be voted on through a separate ballot system.

SEPARATE VOTE

- In a separate vote election, members vote for each officer position separately.
- The candidate that receives the absolute majority for each position will be named the winner.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

- If your JWAC has a relatively small number of candidates, it may be possible to allow candidates to run for more than one position.
- If you are split school (9-10th grade at one campus, 11-12th grade at a main campus), consider asking each secondary campus to vote for a junior representative.
- Consider making Vice President a position only open to juniors, each year the previous Vice President can then transfer into the President position. This allows for mentoring and continuity between each new officer group.
